

Lacking

Weekly Report 10/8/18 - 10/14/18

This last week was in total very uneventful. Unfortunately the veterinary clinic which was called never responded after there were two voicemails left. During Veterinary Medicine, the person who provided the contact spoke of how unreliable that clinic is. This has caused for a greater need of research prior to calling. Research put into the reviews of clients, this will allow for a better understanding of the environment with of the clinic. The decision has been made to call the specialist clinic within the dallas metroplex. Previously, this call was meant to be held as one of the last interviews due to building interview skills. However with a lack of interviews and a lack of specialist this decision has been moved up in order to gain a larger knowledge of orthopedic specialization. To be prepared for this call and hopefully the interview mock interviews with peers could be arranged. These interviews will allow for more confidence and will prepare for any questions that the professionals could ask in regards to the program. This upcoming weeks assessment will hopefully be an interview assessment which allows for a deeper understanding of the interview as it involves a deeper level of analysis.
